Karyl Ronsin Top Tomahawk Beauty

By Robyn Carmichael

Omaha University's 1966 Tomahawk Beauty Queen was crowned amid twinkling blue and green Christmas trees in the Library Conference Center Wednesday.

Dark-haired sophomore Karyl Ronsin smiled through tears of joy as university President Leland E. Traywick presented her with the traditional bouquet of red roses.

The thirty-nine entrants in this year's contest were judged first in street clothes, then in long formals. Judges were Rosemary Madison, from the Sun Newspapers; John Savage, photographer for the World-Herald, and cartoonist Howard Shoemaker, whose work appears in Playboy.

Karyl, a 19-year-old secondary education major, is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority and an OU cheerleader.

Nineteen-year-old Jean Frentress was first runner-up. A member of Zeta Tau Alpha, she is majoring in secondary education and English.

Second runner-up Mary Ann Over is also a nineteen-year-old sophomore. The elementary education major is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority.

Four other finalists were chosen from the thirty-nine. They were Sandra Grove, Karen Ann Johnson, Susan Smith, and Jean Vipond.

Weber Named Editor For Spring Gateway

By Bob Erxleben

"I'm starting a family tradition," chuckled John Weber when informed that he had been selected to edit the spring Gateway.

The 21-year-old senior explained, "My mother edited the Gateway in the fall of 1930 and spring of 1931."

Weber is currently Gateway sports editor and Tomahawk sports editor. He also spent four semesters as a beat reporter for the Gateway.

The 1963 North High graduate edited his school yearbook, the Norseman, in his senior year. Other experience included work on the World-Herald sports desk and a semester as a news-intern for KMTV.

"I thought this semester was bad, but I'll really be busy next semester," Weber noted. "I'll still be working on the Tomahawk as well as editing the Gateway. On top of that, I'll be carrying a 15-hour study load."

Although only 13 hours short of degree requirements, he must carry 15 hours next semester, the minimum requirement to maintain his University Honor Scholarship.

Weber cited his goal as editor as "looking into the matter of state aid."

"Now that the parking problem has been solved, at least temporarily, the future course of OU seems to be the most important problem to be explored."

He added, "The Gateway is finally being recognized as a voice of the campus. By this, I mean it's being quoted by the news media, by the Regents, by guests on campus and, most importantly, by the students."

Toys Drive Nets Prize

The Toys For Tots dance and drive netted over 2200 toys for underprivileged children in the Omaha area.

Sponsored by the Marine Corp and the Arnold Air Society Angel Flight the drive was labeled a tremendous success by Angel chairman, Lois Prazan.

"Last year only 600 toys were collected all together. This year the total was 2,230," Lois said.

Over 150 new toys were collected as the admission price at the dance Friday night.

Bev Grasso accepted the first place trophy for Alpha Xi Delta which collected the most toys. Second place went Tau Kappa Epsilon and in third place was Zeta Tau Alpha.

OU Unveils Long-Range Growth Plan

Omaha University's Graduate College hopes to take the first steps toward much-needed expansion this year.

Currently offering masters' degrees in 12 areas, the college has no doctoral program.

But recently disclosed long-range plans call for establishment of masters' programs in eight more areas, doctoral degrees in four fields, and the development of a major intensified research program.

Just how quickly these plans can be put into effect depends upon university officials' prowess in laying groundwork.

The first area concerns the knotty problem of financing. President Leland E. Traywick says efforts are being made to attract both state aid and private contributions.

But the key area for Graduate College expansion lies in research, an area in which Traywick feels the school is lagging considerably. OU needs not only (Continued on Page 2)

OU College Bowl Committee To Discuss GE Team Selection

About 35 students met during Thanksgiving vacation to discuss plans for the selection of participants in the General Electric College Bowl.

Omaha University has been selected to compete in the weekly quiz program, which matches the top college minds in the country in a fast moving intellectual game.

Dr. J. V. Blackwell, art department head, and also a member of the selection committee, said that another meeting will be held today at 1:30 p.m. in Room 312 of the Student Center.

It was decided at the last meeting that a preliminary run-off will be held prior to the actual event on Feb. 19.

"We will divide all interested students into separate teams and select the team of four and one alternate from the competing teams," Blackwell said.

Further tryouts will be held over Christmas vacation.

Coed of the Week

Booked Up

Coed of the Week Debby Rhoades is getting an education—in education. As yet, her major is undeclared, but she says it will be "something in the education field." The 18-year-old freshman is president of the Sigma Kappa pledge class and is a member of Ipsilon, Home Economics Club and WRA. All these activities keep our Coed's free time pretty well booked up.

Editorially Speaking

Good Education Does Require The Consent Of The Educated

There's a new breed of cat on today's college campus. This group has been branded "the professionals" by a number of educators.

Professor Kenneth Keniston, Yale psychologist, defines the "professionals" as "academically committed young men and women who value technological, intellectual and professional competence above popularity, ambition or grace."

Some educators date the birth of "professionalism" with the launching of Sputnik I on October 4, 1957. Since that time, education and the space race have become almost synonymous.

This professional attitude has led students to take a cold, hard look at the system that educates them and the educators in that system.

And they aren't too pleased at what they see.

There is a general, growing feeling among the student bodies of our nation's universities that students should have a voice in mapping out their college careers.

For the last four decades Harvard students have "graded" their professors. Yale and Cornell have taken up the practice. The Oregon legislature has appropriated 500 thousand dollars for "merit bonuses" at state universities this year. The appropriation carried the stipulation that the students have a voice in determining the distribution of bonuses to worthy faculty members.

So there is some progress being made. But not really great enough or fast enough to pacify today's college student.

That does not imply that students have become revolutionary, reactionary or radical. The basic difference in today's student and the student of yesteryear is that today's student cares. He wants to get involved. Involved in politics, in world affairs, in questions of morality, of integrity, of life itself.

Getting involved, they must ask questions. And they expect answers. Straight answers — not the mumbled cliches that lulled the students of a few years ago — or even of last year.

Students are beginning to see, and educators must begin to realize, that just as good government requires the consent of the governed so must good education require the consent of the educated.

All Seniors who expect to graduate January 1967 must make application for their degree in the Registrar's Office, Adm. 138.

Deadline for such applications is December 12.

A senior class meeting will be held Monday at 2:30 p.m. in the Conference Center Auditorium. Class dues and sponsors will be discussed.

Student Directories are still being issued at the first-floor checkroom in the Student Center.

Letters To The Editor

Yes, Virginia, There Is

Dear Editor,

"Hats off" to the students who took time from their studies and their busy holiday schedule to decorate the Christmas tree in the OUamp Room Tuesday afternoon.

It was certainly a big help to Mrs. Engel, who is in charge of Student Center decorations, and is so busy at this time of year with decorating the Ballroom, cafeteria, OUamp Room, Student Center offices and various decorations for luncheon and dinner banquets.

Benny Menard did an artistic job of stringing the lights with help from Ed Ganey and Sharon Sutej. Diane Kolasky, a true "angel" from angel flight, headed the tinsel group and was adequately assisted by Georgeanne O'Neil, Vickie Mangan and Larne Nie.

This typifies the type of spirit that can be found at Omaha University. There is a friendly and helpful spirit here. "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."

Jerry Ferguson

I'm Going To Tell

Dear Editor,

This year I was shocked to find that the dubious people responsible for the Christmas decorations in the Adm. Bldg. have again perpetrated a foul deed.

Again they have substituted empty packages in the place where good children's long awaited rewards are found.

Imagine my shock and consternation when I found that after spending one full year as a good little lad I was bilked of my due reward. After having spent vast funds on parking fees I searched in vain for some small remembrance under the tree.

Is a card too much to ask?

Santa will hear of this.

Consult The Student Body

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter in hopes that it will produce the resolution to a question which has been in my mind for some time.

Concerning the future of the University of Omaha, the views and opinions of the general citizenry, the local government and various other parties have been sought. But, throughout this entire process of consultation it would appear that the opinions of one interested group have been sadly neglected. The identity of this group is, I think, blatantly obvious. It is the student body.

We are all well aware of the fact that the student body contributes over 70% of the funds needed to support the University of Omaha. It would seem that this fact alone would make it not only expedient, but also obligatory for the Administration to consult the student body concerning the course of action to be taken.

Further, if it should be that the University Administration does not consider the student body to be an important source from which to obtain intelligent views and opinions, it would appear that this is a reflection upon the quality of student enrolled at the University and thus a reflection upon the University itself.

The question of why the student body has not been consulted directly scratches the surface of a more basic question, which is, "For whom does the University exist?"

Does it exist solely for the student? No, I don't think so. Does it exist for the community apart from the student? The answer is no to this question also. Well then, does it exist for the total community which it serves, of which the students are an important part? This I think is the answer to the question.

Thus if it is the intention, and it seems to be, of the University Administration to consult the various segments of the community to find their opinions concerning the future of Omaha University, then, they are neglecting a vital segment of that community when they fail to consider the views of the student body.

OU Announces Expansion Plan

more in the way of physical facilities, such as the proposed development and expansion of the library, computer center and laboratories, but more key faculty members.

Dr. Traywick said that the university hopes to begin expansion this year by hiring three to six faculty members who will divide their time between teaching and research, with a major emphasis on the latter.

The college would particularly encourage research which would be beneficial to the metropolitan area, such as examination of urban and state and local government problems, economics, law enforcement and sociology.

Research of this nature in an expanded graduate program would be certain to attract industry to the Omaha area, absorbing most OU graduates into the local markets," according to Graduate College Dean Elton S. Carter.

Economics, political science, and speech would probably be the departments to add Master's degree programs first. Work on the programs has already begun in these areas and should be ready in a "year or two," Carter said.

Masters' degrees in art, foreign languages, music and chemistry and physics would follow.

Editor's Notes...

Federal Funds For OU

The Nebraska Higher Education Facilities Act Commission has made its recommendations on allocation of $120,263 in federal funds available to colleges and universities for laboratory and other special equipment.

Requests exceeded funds and four colleges had to be shut out completely. They were Midland, Fairbury Junior, Doane and Creighton University. Peru State College sought $3,676 and was recommended for $38.

The priority recommendations were John F. Kennedy College $9,859; Kearney State, $7,685; Wayne State, $15,000; University of Omaha, $19,416; Concordia Teachers, $60,131; Duchesne College, $8,134.

Students Alienated?

A recent study of students at a large commuter school declared that students become "progressively more alienated from the University" as they move through their academic careers.

Four chancellors from the University of California, however, referred to student alienation recently as "the great cliché."

Prof. Arthur Blumberg, educational psychologist at Temple University in Philadelphia, surveyed 400 students there on their feelings about "belonging to a large organization." The results indicated that feelings of "anomie" (which the study defined as "lacking a sense of direction") increased from freshman to senior years.

The Temple study attributed student alienation to several conditions: difficulty in communicating with faculty; impersonal relationships with other students; and the failure of the university to live up to its purposes as stated in the catalogue.

Another reason is the emphasis on career planning, which causes students to see college as only another hurdle before they can do what they feel is really meaningful, the report said.

On the West Coast, however, the chancellors of the University of California at Berkeley, Los Angeles, Irvine, and Davis dismissed the claim of student alienation during a television program last month.

Talking about the overwhelming numbers of students now in college, Chancellor Daniel Aldrich, Jr., of Irvine said, "I'm not satisfied that a student in a large class with a competent professor is any worse off than a student sitting in a small class with an incompetent teacher."

Another California educator declared that the idealism students had is beginning to curdle. Joel P. Smith, Associate Dean of Students at Stanford University, said that students are increasingly frustrated in their attempts at social reform at the national level and are particularly incensed when colleges refuse to accept their suggestions.

Speaking before Stanford students, Smith urged administrators to "pay attention and make changes that are sensible."

Due Process Of Law?

Recent disciplinary action against a University of Maryland freshman charged with possession of marijuana has raised due process questions over the University's judicial procedure.

Robert F. Sauer, 18, of Baltimore, was released on bond two days after being arrested in his dormitory room for illegal possession of marijuana and barbituates.

A University spokesman reported that the Office of the Executive Dean for Student Life has suspended Sauer from housing for "believed possession of marijuana."

There is no specific regulation at Maryland prohibiting the possession of the drug, but University regulations state that residents who fail to observe "accepted standards of conduct" may be asked to leave their dormitories.

In "extreme cases where the conduct of a student may not be in conformity with the best interests of the University," the rule continues, a student may be dismissed from school.

Several students questioned whether the University's disciplinary action, which by-passed a system of student courts, constituted a denial of the rights to due process of law within the University.

University action was likewise questioned because it paralleled legal proceedings by the state, thus possibly subjecting Sauer to double jeopardy for his alleged offense.

In a similar marijuana case at the University of Pennsylvania two weeks earlier, a sophomore student was put on disciplinary probation until he graduates. Prosecution was subsequently initiated by the State.

In that instance, students protested that the University took action before the legal guilt of the accused student was determined.

In Sauer's case, officials emphasize that he was arrested for possession of marijuana and barbituates and not for the use of drugs. Possession of barbituates is a misdemeanor in Maryland. However, possession of narcotics is a felony. Marijuana is considered a narcotic.

Police reportedly acted on a tip in making the arrest. A search warrant had been obtained before officials entered the dormitory and arrested Sauer, who was alone at the time. Federal narcotics agents, state police, and university officials cooperated in the arrest.

Editor Speaks To Press Club

Jim Clemon, city editor of the Omaha World Herald, was on campus Friday, to give OU Press Club members tips on getting jobs as reporters.

The ideal applicant, according to Clemon, is 21 years old, has a degree in journalism, a fundamental knowledge of photography, 30 years experience in writing for a large metropolitan daily, and a willingness to work a 12-hour day for $50 a week.

Clemon admitted, however, that applicants with such qualifications are rare, and that the Herald does settle for less.

He stressed awareness and desire as the two really important requirements for a beginning reporter.

The jobs are there, Clemon added, for those with the ability to fill them, and the Herald is always open to anyone seeking an interview.

In a question and answer period following his remarks, Clemon added that experience is not always necessary for getting a job, and that he, himself, was virtually without experience when he started at the Herald.

Yule Music By Chorus

The University Chorus will present the annual Christmas program next Friday at 10:30 in the Administration Auditorium.

The Chorus will provide traditional Christmas music combined with a contemporary Christmas story composed by Ron Nelson. Included in this work is a brass ensemble under the direction of Jack Malik, a combined men's and women's chorus and soloist Dr. Robert Ruetz.

All 10:30 classes will be dismissed because of the convocation.

In addition to the convocation, the Chorus directed by John Bohrer will also present a Christmas cantata on KYNE Channel 26, Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.

The Chorus will also sing at President Leland Traywick's tea on Tuesday, as well as singing at the Methodist Hospital Nurses Home Thursday.

The convocation Friday will include songs sung in both English and Latin. The University Brass Ensemble will play carols ten minutes before the program begins.

Debaters Win At Arkansas Tourney

Omaha University debaters racked up an impressive set of victories last week.

The two teams putting on the impressive show were Cary Mills-Roger Sutton and Pat Mullaney-Larry Schueler. They were participating in the University of Arkansas Debate Tournament held Dec. 2-3 in Fayetteville.

Roger Sutton was ranked seventh out of the more than 150 debaters participating in the event. The team of Sutton and Mills won five out of six debates. Schueler and Mullaney won four out of six. The latter team has never lost a negative round of debate.

The varsity debaters have no definite trips planned until semester break. During the break, teams from OU will make a swing through the South participating in the Mardi Gras Tournament in New Orleans and debating at several Texas Schools.

OUR Man Chester: No Progress For "OU Rendezvous"

By Chet McCarthy

The senior class of 1966 went down in history for the largest traditional gift ever made to Omaha University. That gift was to be a monument which so far hasn't been built.

Almost $4,000 was collected in a campaign headed by Loren Drum, who was senior class president.

But Loren Drum headed for the state of Washington — and with him went the $4,000.

This was not a case of larceny but rather a case of misunderstanding.

Last semester Loren, after several months of hard work, deposited about $3,800 into an Omaha bank. There the money sat, in his name drawing interest, while the University did nothing to start construction of the monument entitled "The OU Rendezvous".

Loren was an Air Force Cadet who soon had to report at the Fairchild Air Force Base in Washington.

Upon leaving he withdrew the money and took it with him. In Washington Second Lieutenant Drum deposited the money into a savings account to draw five per cent interest.

Back At The Ranch

Meanwhile, back at the ranch, Donald Pflasterer, Dean of Student Personnel, discovered from bank officials that Loren had withdrawn the money.

A series of letters were soon dispatched to Washington along with a phone call.

The result was that Loren sent a letter and a check for $3888.12 to Dr. Paul Peterson, who was the senior class sponsor.

Dr. Peterson said that Loren stated in the letter that he was afraid the University would use the money for some other purpose.

Dr. Peterson wrote back saying that this would not happen and that he would keep Loren informed on the progress of the monument.

The check was turned over the University and then deposited into a savings account at an Omaha bank to again draw five per cent interest.

This time the money was deposited in the name of The Senior Class of '66. To withdraw the money it will take the signature of Dean Pflasterer and Dr. Peterson with written approval of Loren Drum, which they have.

Where's The Monument?

With the money back in Omaha why hasn't the monument been built?

This columnist talked with the University Vice President George Rachford.

"When the monument was proposed Loren was thinking in terms of what the campus is now," said Dean Rachford. "However, we must also think in terms of the future."

He stated that we can't place a monument where a future building might be located.

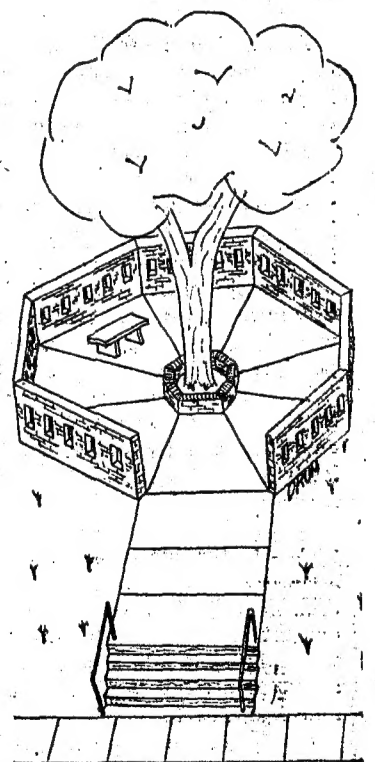

Loren proposed that the "Rendezvous" be built on the hill south of the Student Center and west of the Eppley Conference Center. The design calls for an eight-sided concrete wall, 30 feet in diameter, with a planter in the center (see diagram).

"It will be a memorial to all students from our class. The monument will build school spirit, give students a lasting memory of the University and enhance the beauty of our campus," stated Drum.

Dean Rachford said the location will be determined by the first of next year.

The Administration has no control over the money collected for the senior class gift. This is the way it should be. However, Dr. Peterson is correct in saying, "The money never should have left the campus."

Perhaps this year the senior class should establish some policy so that another unfortunate and embarrassing situation could not occur.

Indian Cagers Stop Three Straight Opponents

All eyes are on Indian Bill Haas . . . as the ball leaves his fingertips. His aim was true, thus scoring two of his total 12 points against the Maroon Chiefs, December 1.

The Indians notched their third straight victory as they downed Nebraska Wesleyan 72-67 Tuesday night in the field-house.

Leonard Todd paced the Indians in garnering 26 points. Todd was high scorer for both teams.

Three other Indians however, were in double figures. Dennis Browne netted 20 points for the Indians. Bill Haas added 13 and Dick Osterhaus had 11 more.

OU scored in spurts to pull away to big leads. Each time, however the Plainsmen narrowed the gap. But each time the Indians went on another scoring binge and widened their lead.

Tie Broken

The Indians pulled away from an 11-11 tie to a commanding 30-19 lead. The Plainsmen cut the deficit to 34-31 before Todd and Bill Haas hit quick buckets to give the Indians a 38-31 edge at intermission.

Free-throws kept the Plainsmen from being beat by an even larger amount. They dropped 13 of 16 from the charity line.

The Indians netted only 8 of 15 from the charity line.

While the Plainsmen were dropping free-throws, the Indians were collecting field goals. The Indians held the bulge from the field 32-27.

The Indians held the edge in rebounding also. The taller Plainsmen grabbed 37, while the hustling Indians grabbed 47.

The Indians dropped 66 per cent of their shots the second half. The first half they dropped 46 per cent.

The Plainsmen dropped from 50 to 40.3 per cent the second half.

NE Missouri Mobbed

OU cagers had a nip-and-tuck contest with the Northeast Missouri Bulldogs Saturday night. The Indians had trouble defensively against the giant invaders, but sharp shooting pushed OU to a 66-to-54 victory.

Substitute Dick Osterhaus was the game's high scorer with 16 points. The 6-2 OU junior played only the second half with crowd-pleasing results. He replaced Jim Vincent, who failed to score.

Second-highest scorer was OU's John Armstrong who with 15 points fouled out with 10:02 left in the game. John scored two fast baskets before he left the game to gain a 45-41 lead.

Jim Etter was again brought in as Armstrong's replacement. He served as playmaker and did not score.

Dennis Browne cinched the game for OU in its closing minutes by tallying five points in the matter of several seconds to give his teammates a 51-42 advantage.

Browne grabbed 16 of the 42 OU rebounds, while the men from Missouri collected 37.

In the shooting department, OU had a torrid 63 per cent the second half for a game average of 53 per cent. The average dropped because of a slow start and an inability to sink long-range shots.

In 1965, OU opened the season against NE Missouri. The 1965 score was an almost identical 65-54 victory for the Indians.

1,200 Curious Fans

Some 1,200 curious fans watched the Singleton-less OU basketball squad emerge a victorious 69-58 from its season opener against Morningside December 1.

The fans were surprised to see a new scoring leader emerge, John Armstrong, with 20 points.

Armstrong, however, ranked second in scoring honors behind Morningside's John Vermilyea. Vermilyea hit for a total 27 points, of which 21 came the first half.

Freshman Len Todd was sent into the fray the second half to try to stop Vermilyea. His success was measured by limiting Vermilyea to three field goals.

Todd also added 15 points to the Indian cause.

Shooting percentages and rebounding efforts both favored the OU cagers.

Sports Banquet Honors Two Squads

About 100 football players, cross country runners, cheerleaders, Indians, Bandsmen, coaches and newsmen attended the fall sports banquet Monday night in the Student Center.

In addition to the eating, various "pep talks" were given during the two-hour affair.

Athletic Director Virgil Yelkin told those gathered that there was "nothing to report" on the possible enlargement of the CIC.

Yelkin said December 16 will be the day of decision. On that day, representatives from 18 colleges and universities will meet in Denver.

After discussing the principles of the proposed Rocky Mountain Conference, the schools will then vote to join or not join. The Conference would be split into a West and an East division with nine of nine teams each.

Earlier in the banquet, President Deland Traywick mentioned two lessons the football squad should learn from the past season.

"There are great, great lessons to be learned from defeat. Let us learn from what happened this fall," was Traywick's first observation.

Secondly, "no team depends on one or two members. This is true in athletics, education, business and the military," he commented.

Master of Ceremonies Frank Scott, KBON's "voice of the Mustangs," then introduced Head Football Coach Al Caniglia.

Caniglia offered no alibis because none were needed. Instead, he thanked the cheerleaders for their unfailing devotion and enthusiasm during the long, long season.

The Coach likewise thanked the student body because it has been very patient. He even had kind words for the local news media, including The Gateway.

"I want to thank you for your patience. As far as I'm concerned, you are all winners on my squad," Caniglia told the banquet-goers.

The Coach also had some good news for anxious fans. Marlin Briscoe and Ed Jackson have both been given another year of eligibility.

Briscoe will be able to play his fourth year on the OU varsity next fall. Jackson will be given an additional year in addition to the two he would have had anyway.

Cross Country Coach Lloyd Cardwell commented that Caniglia would have been glad to have our score, 70 or 90, and we take his, 0," he said.

Football letters were awarded to two four-year players: Terry Edwards and Dave Rak.

Third-year letters were earned by Lew Garrison, Tom Hutchison, Bill Jansen, Harold Lenz and Ken Pelan.

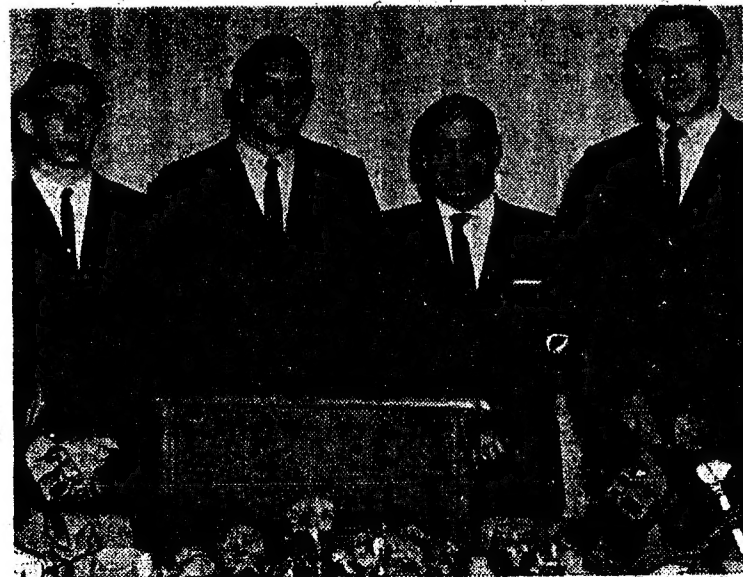

Fifteen men earned their second letter in football. They are: Stan "Buddy" Belits, Rick Davis, Bill Dodd, Carl Goodman, Bill Haas, Bernie Kanger.

Others were: Greg Kavan, Dan Kiepper, Jim Morris, Oscar Pulliam, Ron Sayers, Rich Schnuckman, Pat Smagacz, Lloyd Williams and Willard Shepard.

First-year letters went to 12 players: Steve Haborak, Robert Kreitner, Gary LaFollette, Gary Paporello, Dom Polfrone, Rich Redlinger, Ray Shaw.

Concluding the letter winners are: Stan Standifer, Larry Stephens, Roy Washington, Gary Ziemba and Student Manager Leonard DeBarros.

Two cross country runners received letters: Richard Carey and Gordon Sweeney. Both are freshmen on a squad that was frosh dominated.

OU Matmen Outwrestle Concordia, Kearney State

The youthful University of Omaha wrestlers nearly blanked Concordia Teachers 30-5 in a dual match last Saturday.

Mat Coach Don Benning sent six first-year men in to grapple, and five returned winners.

At 167 pounds, Wendell Hakanson, pinned Fred Janzow in 6:38. Hakanson, an Omaha Benson product, was outstanding in his varsity debut. Tom Ruffino, sophomore transfer, easily decided Art Gundell 6-0 in the 145 pound weight class. Another freshman, Roy Washington pinned Jim Ruhter in an amazing 2:32. Washington wrestles at 152 pounds. Tom Maides, the OU heavyweight, pinned Bill Kerbel in 2:19, another excellent time.

Concordia won only one match. Dick Grauer, District 11 NAIA champion at 177 pounds, pinned rookie Indian Jim Barrington in a respectable 7:20.

The Indians had a total of three pins and five decisions out of the nine classes. Results:

123 pounds—Curlee Alexander, Omaha, decisioned Gary Ebendick, 8-2.
130—Phil Taylor, Omaha, decisioned Phil Kraft, 7-0.
137—Bob Mosely, Omaha, decisioned Phil Lang, 5-0.

The University of Omaha wrestlers mounted their second straight victory in a 40-2 romp over Kearney State Tuesday.

Freshman Roy Washington became the only Indian to win both his matches by falls. He pinned Dan Barrows, high school state champion at 138 pounds last year, in 3:28. Another yearling, Wendell Hakanson, easily whipped Bob Mulberger 6-0 in the 167 pound weight class.

Tom Maides, OU heavyweight, defeated Ron Nelroy 4-0. Nelroy was the NAIA District 11 champ at 191 pounds last year. Jim Barrington won his first match as an Indian matman by pinning Milt Dahlgren in 4:54. Results:

115 pounds—Curlee Alexander, Omaha, won by forfeit.
123—Kinze Williams, Omaha, decisioned Ron Burback, 5-0.

Three Guards Spice OU Cagers Attack

By John Whisman

Last of three-part series
Three fine guards spice the OU attack this year.
John Armstrong, Jim Etter, and Leonard Todd are the guards Coach Borsheim is relying upon in this campaign.

Armstrong should be considered the saltiest guard on the squad. With one letter to his credit, Armstrong is off to an excellent start this year. At 6' 1" Armstrong is quick afoot and adds speed to the club.

Armstrong is a good shooter from the outside, and possesses the ability to sneak inside for driving baskets.

Last year, Armstrong broke into the starting rotation toward the end of the season.

Todd comes from Demopolis, Alabama. At 22, Todd is the oldest guard. Although it is his first year in an OU uniform, Todd has had a lot of experience. Last year the 6-foot guard was playing for the Air Force in Puerto Rico. His credentials are more than adequate.

Freshman Jim Etter appears headed for a bright career as an Indian cager. Etter is a 1966 graduate of Bishop Ryan. Last year Etter was one of the top guards in the area.

Etter came off the bench to relieve Armstrong against Northeast Missouri. Armstrong was replaced when he ran into foul trouble in the first half.

Two other cagers rate strong votes of confidence from Coach Borsheim. Norm Davis and Dick Osterhaus are slated for heavy action this season.

Davis, senior with two letters, will be the first replacement for either Dennis Browne or Bill Haas under the boards.

At 6' 1", Davis will surprise many opponents. He will in most cases be playing against much taller opponents.

Coach Borsheim stated, however, that Davis has remarkable spring and can jump with men 6' 3" and 6' 4" tall and come down with the ball.

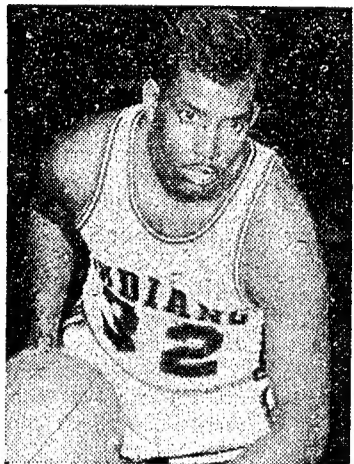

Osterhaus, according to Borsheim will play as much as any one of the starting five. His performance against Northeast Missouri propelled the Indians to victory.

His 16 points paced the Indians. Osterhaus replaced Jim Vincent who was having trouble finding the range.

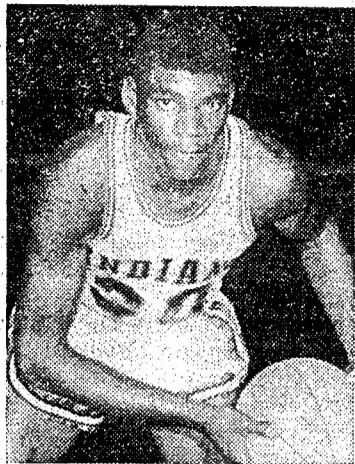

Osterhaus is considered an all around player on the squad. At 6' 2", Osterhaus is versatile enough to play anywhere he is needed.

Girls Extramural Basketball Season Begins With Win

By Roberta Pechous

Omaha University white and red uniforms were breezing down the courts Saturday afternoon, but they weren't on the varsity cagers. The girls extramural team played its first game at Midland College in Fremont.

LeAnn Hoagland was top scorer with 7 points and Shari Brown was a close second with 6 points.

The final score was 29-19, Omaha, but don't let the score fool you, it was a tough defensive game with Omaha dominating the game with its ball handling and rebounding.

The girls were a little jittery at first, but settled down in the second quarter, which was the turning point of the game. The score was tied 14-14 at the half.

Marcia Martin can testify to the fact that the game was slightly unusual as a Midland girl bear-hugged her for the ball. Marcia was quite shocked by this technique of playing.

The only injury was suffered when Danya Linneman was hit at nose level and developed a nose bleed.

"We shot a lot," was Joan Edward's cryptic comment.

"This was a rough, difficult game with no playing around," added Jeannette Putney.

The girls went to play basketball and even forgot about the "boos" and "hisses" from the boys watching the game.

"The whole team agreed that we had superb coaches who will lead us to victory again this Saturday at Wayne State Teachers College," said Kathy Hurley.

Coaches for the team are Connie Claussen and Sonia Green, both women's physical education instructors.

Miss Green commented that the girls did a good job for their first game but need more work.

The extramural team was organized about two months ago.

Intra Cagers Still Clashing; Five Teams Stay Unbeaten

Five intramural basketball teams still remain unbeaten in the three intramural cage leagues. Only three teams out of 24 have yet to win a game.

The Fugitives, League II, lead all teams with a 4-0 record. The Bootstrappers and Lit' Pikes have 3-0 records.

Cagers Will Carry 3-0 Record Into Doane Tigers' Lair Tonight

The OU cagers will hit the road with a 3-0 record before they enter the Doane Tigers' lair tonight.

Doane sports a 3-1 record for the season after Wednesday's 76-to-63 victory over Concordia. The win was the second this season over Concordia.

Doane's lone loss was to Hastings in the Midwest Tourney last week. The 75-to-63 setback dropped the Tigers into a second-place finish.

Freshman Jack Owen is the team's leading scorer with 64 points or an average of 16 a game.

Doane nipped OU 74-70 last season. In that campaign, Doane amassed a 17-10 record, good enough for a berth in the College Division of the NCAA playoffs.

Midland will be trying to improve on last year's record, when the Indians invade Fremont next Tuesday.

According to Indian Head Coach, Jim Borsheim, Midland is improve about 100 percent over last year.

Midland has seven lettermen back from last years squad. If a reliable post man can be found, the Warriors could be a tough ball club.

Coach Borsheim feels that this first road test could be an indication of the season. The Indians have already proven themselves at home with three straight victories.

If the Indians can win on the road, a successful season is in the making. The Indians play an even number of games on the road and at home. The Indians are the host club 10 games and the visitors in 10 encounters.

The Sands Off Time

"Grain of Sand," OU's literary magazine, will be on sale in the Bookstore next week.

"This is later than usual, due to a few unavoidable delays," said Dr. Ralph Wardle, advisor to the "Grain of Sand" editorial board.

The editorial board headed by Gary Johnson consists of James Faiman, Diedre Power, Harold Schneider and Janet Voelte.

The December Grain of Sand will have an emphasis on poetry.

Meeting Of PAT Pending

Dr. A. Stanley Trickett is planning to attend the eighty-first annual meeting of the American Historical Association. Also, he will be attending the 1966 national convention of Phi Alpha Theta, national history honorary.

These meetings will be held in New York on Dec. 27-31. They will meet at the Hilton and Americana hotels in New York.

It is anticipated that 5,000 or more individuals at work in history throughout the U.S. and Canada will attend.

Dr. Trickett is scheduled to read a paper at the Phi Alpha Theta program entitled "Some Reflections on the Change in Sentiment in England between 1780-1830".

Check On Brecht

The Omaha Community Playhouse Studio Theater production of "Brecht on Brecht" opens this evening.

The six-member cast includes Richard Albin of the OU speech department. Albin and the other cast members will read poems and present excerpts from plays written by Bertolt Brecht. The production will also include several songs with lyrics written by Brecht.

Other cast members in the Studio Theater production are Louise Filbert, Harry Langdon, Janet Maddux, Ozzie Nogg and Rudyard Norton. Musical numbers will be accompanied by Claudette Valentine.

"Brecht on Brecht" is similar to productions done by OU's Reader's Theater which is directed by Albin. He is currently in the process of trying out people for the Reader's Theater production of "In White America". Any student interested in taking part in Reader's Theater is invited to contact Richard Albin in Room 251 J of the Ad Building.

Mondo Came, Sand The Same

Alpha Kappa Delta, the national sociology honorary on campus, is sponsoring a second film for the student body. They will show "India - Writings on the Sand" on Wednesday, Dec. 14, at 3:30 p.m. in the Library Conference Center.

The hour-long, color film's central theme is the population problem that exists in India. It explores the social patterns of urban and rural India that slow attempts to control India's population explosion.

The club's last film, "Mondo Cane", had good attendance — as it hopes to have for this second endeavor. Students and teachers are invited and admittance is free.

Do I Hear 35?

Senior class president Tom Ridley is going to try it again.

This Monday, the seniors will meet in the Conference Center Auditorium at 2:30 p.m. to discuss class dues and sponsors.

Only 34 seniors bothered to attend the last meeting.

It's A Lot Of Fund

The Bob Hope films will be shown Dec. 15 and 16 in the Conference Center Auditorium. Admission will be 70 cents.

The 7 p.m. show is being sponsored by OU's Arnold Air Society as a fund-raising project.

This is the first time in recent years a fund-raising project by a campus organization has been allowed.

According to Rick Martin, AAS executive staff member, permission was granted by Dean Donald Pflasterer. He added that profits will be shared by the Student Activity Fund and the AAS.

Said At Raven, Readsomemore

Dr. D. C. Cushenbery, department of special education, attended a reading conference at Raven Wood, Mo., Sat. Nov. 19, 1966.

The workshop was held for some 70 elementary teachers from Graham, Mailland and Skidmore, Mo.

The reading workshop was held to familiarize teachers on principles of reading and techniques.

Dr. Cushenbery attends many reading clinics during the year besides his regular classes and time spent writing a book.

More Of More

Phi Kappa Phi honorary will hold its December meeting in the home of faculty president W. C. B. Lambert, Monday at 8 p.m.

OU student Jerry Webster will speak on one of his current interests — utopias.

"Utopias are all fictional and usually take the form of a novel so the author can say what he wants to in a fictional setting," said Webster.

Jerry admits he got the utopia "bug" during the fall of 1965. His interest has grown to the point where he would like to write a book on the subject.

"Up to the 20th century, utopias were a quest in the author's mind to seek paradise. The paradise becomes a nightmare in the 20th century," he believes.

Plato's The Republic presents the first utopian thought. Interested Phi Kappa Phi members should come to the Lambert residence at 3520 Woolworth Ave. to find out what other utopias have been created over the centuries.

Eating Meeting

All accounting majors are invited to the Accounting Society's next meeting and carry-tray lunch, in Dining Room A of the Student Center on Thursday, Dec. 15, at 11:00 a.m.

Dedication Helps Sabres

By Dave Decker

Put together 26 dedicated AFROTC Cadets, one dedicated commander, add spirit, enthusiasm and diligence. The end result—the SABRE Drill Team.

"We practice every morning at 0630," second-year member Bob Campbell said, "But the rewards are high and satisfaction is plenty."

Members of the SABRES, unlike other campus organizations, are not forced to pay dues in order to seek friendship. It is the SABRE belief that men working toward one goal can find the close-knit association needed in any organization.

All eligible members of the SABRE Flight are members of the military organization, the Arnold Air Society. Sabres inject the spirit of competition into the entire corps.

While other cadets sack in for that extra hour of sleep, the SABRES are in the Field House at 0630 marching and preparing for the ultimate trial . . . the National Drill Team Competition.

Last year the SABRES, under the direction of the present Group Commander Bill Michalenko, captured a third place in the face of stiff competition in Boulder, Colo.

Since drill meets are the only direct contact with ROTC units of other colleges and universities, the meets are of the utmost importance to team members. In addition, these meets add prestige to the cadets, and a victory by the SABRES brings recognition to the OU campus.

Last year they captured a first-place in Lincoln, defeating many area teams, including the University of Nebraska teams.

"Enchanted" Humor Has Subtle Lesson

By Ken Lambrecht

The University Theatre will assume an intricate and awesome task tonight at 8:30 when it presents the first of three performances of Giraudoux's "The Enchanted".

Why? Because critics agree, "it is undeniably a difficult play to do" — that is, of course, if it is to be done right.

Theatre Arts denounces the categorizing of this play as a comedy: "Giraudoux has written a play about the longing of youth, the death of the spirit and the triumph of convention. Because one can laugh at the people to whom Giraudoux entrusts his message, it does not follow that he has written a comedy."

Thus, one can assume by this that, while "The Enchanted" intends to enchant the audience with its playfulness, beneath the surface is the intention to disenchant through pathos and the realities of life. It is a limerick in prose or a type of parody on life.

And so, Theatre Arts warns, "Many productions ignore the meaning beneath the surface humor and thus evoke laughter without pity or understanding." This seems to be the basic complaint among critics and thus a trap that the University Theatre should beware of lest it fall head on into it tonight.

Better Program For Guidance

By Bonnie Johnston

If you feel you are fumbling through college, not sure of your courses or what your major should be, there is help available here at Omaha University.

"Two-thirds of the students entering this university," according to Dr. Gale Oleson of Guidance and Counseling, "place themselves in the general education curriculum."

Counseling Suggestions

To spark freshman and sophomores to choose a definite program of study, Dr. Oleson invites a department head to define that course of study, make suggestions how to counsel undecided students or students wanting to take courses in that field; and exchange views on how to benefit the student pursuing his diploma, during monthly luncheon seminars attended by OU counselors.

Dr. Oleson feels strongly that with the high rate of dropouts at 20%, "educated guidance" of the student will impel the desire for an education . . . and graduation.

Keeping Informed

In his quest for participation of "academic advisors", from every department, Dr. Oleson stresses "the continuing process of instructor participation to keep the counselors informed of conditions in the different departments so they can talk realistically to students about what to consider for a course of study.

"The University is growing so rapidly," he said, "we must have some way to keep counselors up-to-date on changes."

Oleson stated that "over half of the students entering college are not sure what they want. Many students choose areas for glamour or other reasons and do not really know the requirements. A student may want to major in engineering but is unable to do the math or take business administration, but would do poorly in accounting."

Improvements

Another pitfall of a late decision is chemistry and science requirements for certain degrees which must be started early.

O.U.'s Counseling Department with three University Division Counselors and three graduate assistants are striving for an alliance with faculty members serving as advisors in their respective colleges to keep information flowing, to better guide those students seeking direction.

Dr. Oleson calls on all interested faculty members to participate in this program.

Theta Chi Hosts Greeks At Annual Ox Olympics

The ancient Egyptians spent decades building one pyramid, and tonight O.U. Greeks will be trying to build a configuration along the same lines in less than two seconds.

The occasion is the ninth annual Theta Chi Ox Olympics and the feature event will be a four-tier human pyramid contest—with fraternities out to beat last year's record of 1.6 seconds.

Activities will begin at 3:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom with a dance. An alumni tea will precede the opening of the all-Greek games at 7:30 p.m., and an all-school dance will follow the games from 10:30 to 12 p.m.

Featuring competition between fraternities and sororities, the contestants will participate in chariot races, three-legged races, egg tosses, tricycle races, and another contest to be announced at the games.

Her majesty, Queen Helen of Troy, will be chosen at the party on the basis of poise, beauty, and costume, and partly on the game points accumulated by her sorority.

Vying for the title are Jeanie Krogh, Chi Omega; Pat Baldwin, Sigma Kappa; Kris Rushing, Alpha Xi Delta; and Nancy Stevenson, Zeta Tau Alpha.

Women's Club Gives Party

The University of Omaha Women's Club is holding its annual Christmas party Saturday at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom.

The Women's Club, made up of faculty and staff members and the wives of faculty, staff, and Regents members, will decorate for their dinner in the traditional colors of Christmas.

Mrs. Merle Brooks, chairman of the event, has prepared a program of dramatic readings and music by freshman Nancy Kenny, who will sing and Chris Vavrick, who will play the piano.

Greek Grind

Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity was host last week to National Field Counselor Lance Parker.

Parker, who is from Memphis, held conferences with all fraternity officers and discussed the national Pi Kappa Alpha with local Pi Kaps.

Alpha Xi Delta held its annual Christmas Party with the Alumni Chapter Tuesday at the Commercial Savings and Loan building.

Alumni and collegiate members were asked to bring a toy or used clothing to be repaired and given to the children at the Nebraska Children's Home. Bev Grasso was in charge of collecting the toys and clothing.

The brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon have adopted two Siamese cats as mascots. Their names are Teki and Ep Ep.

The Omaha alumni Chapter of Chi Omega will honor alums and active members at a Christmas tea Sunday.

Theta Chi will present a party tomorrow afternoon for children from the Nebraska Children's Home Society in conjunction with the Ox Olympics.

La Rae Koppit Chosen Typical

By Bobbie Spicer

La Rae ... Typical Indianne

La Rae Koppit has been chosen 1966 Typical Indianne. The Westside grad gained her marching experience on Westside's drill squad.

The method this year for choosing the Typical Indianne differed from that of previous years. In past years, the members of Indiannes voted on their choice. This, however, turned into a vote for a sorority instead of a vote for the best qualified.

Jack Malik, band director and Indianne sponsor, chose this year's typical. He received suggestions from Joyce Page, Head Indianne, and discussed the choices with several people who observed the group in action. Malik feels this resulted in the choice of a more typical Indianne.

Zeta Zingers Sing Out

By Mary Beth Suddick
"Sing, Sister, Sing" is the theme song for a group of girls called the Zeta Zingers. Their name is derived from the sorority they represent, Zeta Tau Alpha.

The group began in 1964 under the direction of that years sorority song leader, Judy Anderson Maloney.

In 1965 the Zingers sang for various activities outside the sorority. Included in these activities were the Lambda Chi Alpha and Theta Chi Conclaves. During that time they took first place honors in the Sigma Frolics. They also sing for sister's weddings and the Zeta Mother's Club.

This year the Zeta Zingers are under the direction of Sue Kesinger. They have added three new singers because four of the original members graduated. Sue, Sandy Grove, Shirley Newcomer, Mary Jacobi, Joyce Arnett, and Pat Johnson make up the group now.

The Zeta Zingers next appearance will be at the Zeta Tau Alpha Fantasy 'n Frost.

Do wishers become savers faster at the U.S. National Bank?

"Wishing will make it so." Wishing does work when it comes to being a successful money saver. Works wonders, in fact. Without wishing for a new car, new wardrobe, or new anything, there would be no incentive to save.

So you go ahead with the wishes. Then come see the U.S. National Bank and find out how to make those wishes come true. We've made a lot of wishers into savers.

As to how we do it faster at the U.S. National Bank — that we can show you. For example, we'll show you how profitable it is to save with us — how fast your money grows with top interest rates compounded regularly. And how easy, with such conveniences as our drive-in bank, out of the busy traffic area. In fact, our savings encouragement program even includes help in waving your wishing wand.

Wishers do become savers faster at the U.S. National Bank. Just ask most any friends you see sporting a new car.
